SUNDAY'S STORM.

The past week has been one of the stormiest that has ever visited this county. The wind and rain Saturday night and Sunday was something terrible threatening to destroy everything that came in its way. While no damage was done in town, we hear that a great deal of property was destroyed in the west end of the county. Especially was this the case in the Cove and lower part of Thompson Valley.

In the former location fences were blown down, sugar orchards destroyed, barns and other out houses were blown away as chaff before the storm king. In Thompson Valley several houses and barns were blown down as also a great deal of fencing.

All the small rivulets were turned into regular torrents throughout the county and some parts of the county were inaccessible for several days owing to the high waters.

The trains on the N. & W. were delayed for several days, no trains going through at all Tuesday. At Pounding Mill a slide 150 feet long blocked the road, while Big Bull tunnel, near Virginia City, was in. The above is the same tunnel which caused so much trouble a few years ago. The damage to the railroad company is considerable, but at this time no estimate as to the loss can be made.

On Elk Horn the damage was much greater than in Tazewell county. Trestles and bridges as well as the bed of the road was washed out, and trains were annihilated for some days.

There were five persons drowned in Russell county, and also four, and perhaps more, near Bristol. The storm was very severe along the main line of the N. & W. as well as along the extension in this immediate section.

The S. A. & O. R. R. suspended traffic for several days owing to damage sustained by the flood, and the depot at Gate City was struck by lightning and burned down.

The storm which created so much havoc throughout Southwest Virginia was only a reminder of the torrid that swept through the West, destroying life and property on Sunday last.

All the rivers in the West were higher than they have been in years, and floods were the order of the day.

Town Council.

At a called meeting of the Town Council, Wednesday afternoon, the following resolution was adopted: "On motion, the license tax on Mac Jones' show be put at $1.50 for each night, but this shall be no precedent for any show in the future. But each show shall be required to pay regular license tax hereafter."

The above action, we learn, was made necessary on account of the various shows that come to Tazewell always taking advantage of the fact that where an entertainment was given for the benefit of charity or other similar character, it is exempt from the usual license levied by the corporation. Hereafter all shows will have to pay license, no matter what may be the circumstances under which they exhibit. This is a step in the right direction.

Of Interest to Farmers.

The firm of Roger Martin & Co., are desirous of buying large quantities of produce and are prepared to pay for it in either cash or groceries. They desire to make a specialty of this business and will pay the highest market price for all kinds of produce. If you have anything of the kind to sell take it to their store on Main street, Tazewell. No use to ship produce when you can get just as good a price for it from a reliable merchant at home, and you will not have to wait for returns for weeks, but you will be paid at once.

Obituary.

Mr. Rees Crabtree was born July 21st, 1803; died March 10th, 1893, aged 89 years 7 months and 25 days. He was born in Poor Valley, Tazewell county, Va. He came to Thompson's Valley when about 25 years old; when this section was not settled. He went out a home and a farm and settled down to the quiet and peaceful life of a farmer. For nearly twelve years he lived alone, a bachelor, then married Miss Jennie Spracher, of Burke's Garden, Va. They lived as companions in sorrow and joy for forty five years. One son and three daughters mourn the departed, and fifteen grand children and eight great grand children have been born to him and his. Both Mr. and Mrs. Crabtree were consistent members of the Lutheran church. Mr. Crabtree had been connected with the church for sixty years. He was a respected citizen, a beloved neighbor, a kind and good father and husband devoted to his church and home. His life is too well known that he should now be praised by others. His deeds of kindness are written in the hearts of men, a more enduring monument than brass or marble. He survived his day and generation, for there were gathered other and younger generations to pay the last respects to a venerable servant of the Lord. His exemplary life and temperate habits will long be looked upon as a model, after which young persons should shape theirs. He rests in peace. E. H. R.

Mr. Joshua Sexton has returned to Tazewell after attending medical lectures at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., for the past six months, and his many friends here extended him a hearty welcome. We understand that Mr. Sexton stood second in his class, which proves that he has worked hard during the past session, though it seems to have agreed with him, as he is looking remarkably well.

The man who eats because he is hungry is, thus far, on a level with the brute. The man who stops eating the moment his hunger is appeased is the wise man. Nature needs no more food than she calls for. Continued excess brings about indigestion or dyspepsia, with loss of flesh, strength, sleep, ambition and mental power, and an accumulation of aches, pains and many dangerous local maladies.

The stomach now can do nothing alone. We must appeal to some artificially digested food which can also digest other foods that is to say, we must use the Shaker Digestive Cordial. The effect is prompt and cheering. The chronic pain and distress of dyspepsia presently revives. Fresh vigor gradually comes back, and the sufferer recovers. But he must be careful in future.
